Description

Oval extending table dating from the late 19th century, crafted from fine thuya burl wood, expertly worked. The top features a beautiful, warm and even grain, enhanced by a refined inlaid border that highlights its elegance. The structure rests on four tapered solid wood legs, adorned with gilded bronze floral mounts, typical of high-quality cabinetmaking of the period. The central extension allows the tabletop to be easily enlarged, making the table suitable both for everyday use and formal entertaining. A table of great charm and craftsmanship, ideal for classic or eclectic interiors and perfect as a statement piece in a refined dining room. Period: Late 19th century Materials: Thuya burl, solid wood, gilded bronze Condition: Excellent, with minor age-related wear consistent with its period
