Description

Early 20th-century Belle Époque style drop earrings, with a base of 585/°° yellow gold (14 KT, scallop shell hallmark) and an upper section of 925/°° silver (swan hallmark). Their openwork garland design is composed of three parts: a daisy-shaped stud on the ear, mounted on a post for pierced ears with a push-back clasp; a characteristic and stylized knot, delicately openwork and set with rose-cut diamonds, surmounting an openwork teardrop in the center of which is a mobile pendant, simply composed of a cabochon sapphire. The sapphire/rose-cut diamond combination is repeated on each element. The sapphires offer a beautiful, deep, and luminous blue color. The cabochons contrast in size with the rest of the piece. All the elements are articulated, and the cabochon sapphire drops
