Description

"Love's Chariot" Clock, Empire period, early 19th century. A chased bronze clock with a double patina, gilt and dark green. The dial is set within a vase with openwork handles in the form of a swan with outstretched wings holding a garland. Surmounted by a cupid in a chariot drawn by two doves on clouds. The foot is bordered with a frieze of water leaves, the oval base decorated with quivers, arrows, and oak leaves resting on flattened ball feet. The enamel dial features Roman and Arabic numerals. The mechanism is original and in perfect working order. Delivered complete with its key and pendulum. The clock has just been serviced. French work from the Empire period, circa 1800. Height: 44 cm, Width: 24 cm, Depth: 9 cm
