Description

Marko Stupar 1936- 2021 Our painting was done around 1960 Marko Stupar, born in Bosnia in 1936, grew up in a context marked by war and precarious living conditions. From an early age, he took refuge in drawing, sketching in his notebook the landscapes of the regions he travelled through. Later, he became an engineer in a machine-tool factory, while attending evening classes at the Belgrade School of Fine Arts. At the same time, he enriched his artistic eye by regularly visiting the capital's museums, where he developed a passion for Impressionist masters such as Monet, Renoir and Pissarro. At the age of 28, he chose to settle in Paris, the city that has always nurtured his imagination. Fascinated, he explored the Grand Boulevards for the first time, strolled through the gardens and developed a
