Description

A charming little mahogany marquetry side table, a former work table, English manufacture from the late 19th century. Equally suitable as a coffee table, side table, bedside table, work table, etc., this delightful little piece is truly versatile! Resting on four tapered legs, the lower section features a wire mesh compartment offering numerous storage options. The upper section consists of a top that opens in the center with two pull-out handles, revealing eight compartments. Truly unique, elegant, and functional, this small piece will find its place anywhere in the house. It is in good condition; only the top shows some minor wear and marks (see photos 10 and 11).
