Description

A Louis XV period 18th-century walnut console table. It rests on four cabriole legs with elegant lines, joined by a shaped apron. It features a drawer in the front. The proportions are harmonious and typical of small occasional tables of the 18th century. The walnut has a beautiful antique patina. The tabletop has undergone an earlier restoration (if you wish to specify this), ensuring stability and comfortable use. This refined piece can be used as a light console, side table, or placed between two windows. Period: 18th century Style: Louis XV Wood: Walnut Condition: Good condition, with some older restorations Dimensions: Height: 67 cm Width: 92.5 cm Depth: 52.5 cm
