Description

Oil painting on canvas depicting a seascape with sailing ships in a storm, second half of the 19th century, attributable to the Northern European marine tradition, with references to Dutch painting, of excellent quality. In the foreground, the raging waves crash against the masts and wooden landing stage, while the two large vessels with unfurled sails face the sea. This composition has a strong scenic impact, with a skillful rendering of the movement of the water and a refined atmospheric study. Particular attention has been paid to the painting of the boats and masts. Measures 130 x 90 cm
