Description

A circular Empire-style mirror with a richly carved and gilded frame. This decorative piece is distinguished by its pediment featuring a majestic eagle with outstretched wings, a symbol of power and prestige, resting on a base of delicately crafted acanthus leaves. The frame is distinguished by a wide molding adorned with projecting balls, typical of the Empire style, adding a unique dimension to the whole. This mirror is in good condition, with a few minor chips from use that do not detract from its beauty and quality.
