Description

Large and rare patinated metal clock with two vases decorated with bearded men. The clock is signed Arthur Waagen (1833-1898) and titled "Time is Money." The clock features a smiling young woman adorned with coins and cornucopias. The proverb "Time is Money" comes from the work of Benjamin Franklin, published in George Fisher's 1748 book, The American Instructor, in which Franklin wrote: "Remember that time is money." The set is in excellent condition; the clock is working. There is a small chip on one of the two decorative vases (see photo). Shipping: 50 to 80 euros by courier.
