Description

DescriptionThis antique garden table features a circular mosaic top set within a wrought iron base, combining decorative craftsmanship with functional outdoor design. The surface is composed of green and cream geometric tesserae arranged in an interlocking pattern with a contrasting border, showing age-related wear consistent with outdoor use. Its slender, curved iron legs form a stable tripod base with a central support ring, displaying natural patination and oxidation to the metal. Likely of Mediterranean origin, the piece reflects traditional early 20th-century garden furniture design and offers a practical yet characterful accent for terraces, patios, or conservatories.ArtistUnknown maker, early 20th century.Artist DetailsThe maker is currently unidentified.
