Description

This Art Nouveau brooch, made of enamel or glass, is very characteristic of the Art Nouveau period with a "noodle" motif. It is adorned with cultured pearls and bears an eagle's head hallmark. The technique is visible on the front and back, and the colors are also reminiscent of the 1900s. The overall craftsmanship is exquisite. It is in very good condition. Our photos allow you to appreciate the quality of this brooch. For condition details, please examine the photos carefully. Feel free to zoom in. The photos are an integral part of the description.
