Description

Charming Louis XVI Marquetry Chest of Drawers - 18th-Century Elegance and Refinement. Here is a delightful little Louis XVI period chest of drawers, combining classical simplicity with decorative refinement, in very good condition. Resting on four tapered legs ending in simple brass sabots, it presents a slender and elegant silhouette, typical of the Neoclassical taste of the late 18th century. Its front features three drawers, framed by delicately drawn marquetry stringing, elegantly highlighting the geometry of the panels. The bronze keyhole escutcheons add a touch of discreet distinction. The marquetry top reveals beautiful veneer work in warm hues, offering a lovely depth of tone. The whole piece has a soft and even patina, attesting to its age while maintaining the freshness and legibility of the decoration. A charming feature: the top drawer reveals a fabric-lined interior with a floral design, and its drop-front conceals a mirror, transforming this chiffonier into a small, intimate, and refined dressing table--a detail always sought after by collectors. Its harmonious dimensions allow it to find its place in both classic interiors and more contemporary settings seeking an authentic and characterful piece. An elegant, decorative, and functional piece, ideal for a living room, bedroom, or study, and perfect for lovers of Louis XVI furniture looking for a quality piece full of charm and history.
