Description

Presumed portrait of Count Nicolas-Charles de Nugent (1806-1881), 2nd Count of Nugent, auditor at the Council of State, owner of the Château des Mesnuls in the Yvelines. The Count, of mature age, is depicted in a half-length portrait, slightly turned three-quarters, his gaze directed towards the viewer, wearing a dark house cap. His face, dominated by a full beard, emphasizes his calm, blue-grey eyes, contributing to the psychological intensity of the portrait. Only the face is fully rendered; the shoulders and clothing, barely sketched with broad pastel strokes, suggest a light-colored coat without specifying its details. Pastel on cardboard in a large polychrome wooden frame. Dimensions: Height: 59 cm; Width: 45 cm.
