Description

This mahogany half-moon table is a remarkable example of the craftsmanship of the second half of the 19th century. Its elegant semi-circular silhouette rests on turned, tapered legs, adorned with refined collars and brass sabots, highlighting its noble and functional character. This modular piece reveals its ingenuity thanks to its three extension leaves, allowing the console to be transformed into a majestic 2.70-meter-long table. This configuration offers generous seating, ideal for hosting up to twelve guests in a warm and refined setting. Combining classic aesthetics and adaptability, this piece embodies the elegance of period furniture while meeting the demands of contemporary conviviality. It will find its place in both a traditional interior and a more eclectic setting. Period: Second half of the 19th
