Description

A reliquary monstrance for the altar, crafted from repoussé and cast silver leaf, partially gilded, resting on a shaped wooden base extended by a baluster shaft. The central section, adorned with rich openwork roccaille, contains a double-sided rock crystal reliquary capsule bearing the inscription "S. ANTONI PATAVINI" and "Ex ossibus" on the reverse; with a partially preserved seal. Saint Anthony of Padua (1195-1231) was the renowned founder of the Franciscan order. A fine example of Italian goldsmithing, likely from Tuscany, dating to the mid-18th century. It retains its antique patina, is in good overall condition, and its authenticity is preserved. It comes with its original leather case (damaged).
