Description

Charcoal portrait of an officer of the First Empire, signed JB? Six Thermidor Year VIII (July 1800). The drawing is presented in a period frame gilded with fine gold. This soldier has a distinguished appearance, but is rendered in a naturalistic style, typical of the period. The signature remains undeciphered for the time being... In fine condition, this portrait is a historical artifact from the era when the Empire offered the hope of social standing and perhaps glory to a courageous citizen. Dimensions of the drawing: height 32 cm x width 25.5 cm.
