Description

Venice, Palaces on the Grand Canal Vincenzo Chilone (Venice 1758-1839) attributed Oil on canvas Contemporary gilded frame First half of the 19th century Canvas 58 x 50 cm Frame 78 x 70 cm Excellent condition Cleaned and relined The painting depicts a perspective view of the Grand Canal with the palaces reflected in its waters, creating magnificent effects of light and color. The typical Venetian boats with the gondoliers rowing standing enliven the scene. The canvas stands out for its remarkable elegance in a composition of great stylistic and chromatic finesse. The artist's pictorial skills are highlighted by an excellent rendering of perspective and the perfect use of chiaroscuro, as well as by the precision of the details. The color scheme is particularly refined, with the cool hues of the blue
