Description

We are pleased to present this early 20th-century oil on board painting. This splendid view of the Gulf of Naples is signed lower right: R. Leone. It is likely the work of the Italian painter Leone Romolo (Naples, 1883-Naples 1958), without authentication. This small painting captures the charm of the Italian coast in the city of Naples. The imposing silhouette of Castel dell'Ovo rising from the sea is clearly visible on the left, while the volcano Mount Vesuvius rises in the background. The true protagonists of this painting are the fishermen and their boats in the foreground. This painting is characterized by bold, textured brushstrokes that highlight the artist's artistic qualities. Particular attention is evident in the light and atmosphere of the gulf, as well as in the daily life of the gulf. If you know
