Description

A substantial and elegant 18th-century wardrobe in solid cherry wood, opening with two richly molded and shaped doors. The front features a typical line of the regional Louis XV style, with a gently undulating lower rail. The central stile is adorned with an elegant chevron marquetry inlay, adding depth and refinement to the piece. The lower rail is decorated with a basket of flowers carved in wood. It retains its original, functional wrought-iron cremone bolt lock, as well as its long, finely cut brass keyhole escutcheons. Original lock and key. The cherry wood boasts a beautiful, warm patina with deep hues and a natural decorative grain. The elegantly curved pediment is highlighted by discreet marquetry. Straight uprights rest on slightly cabriole feet. Two interior shelves (with the possibility of
