Description

Superb solid walnut table, typical of the Louis XIV period, 18th century. It is mounted on four baluster legs connected by a stretcher. The entire piece is turned wood, with walnut in two tones: dark and light. It has double-padded feet. The apron features a wide molding. A large drawer in the front has a dark molding. The top has a wide cyma molding around its edge, which reduces its initial thickness. Everything is fully pegged. The drawer has its original poplar liners. The top has a beautiful honey color and shows signs of wear that give it considerable charm. A high-quality piece of furniture. The top is pegged and nailed, which is typical for this period. Restorations consistent with age and use. Length: 90.7 cm, Width: 67.5 cm, Height: 71.6 cm, Height under the apron: 58.5 cm
