Description

Charming Louis XV style fruitwood wardrobe, a provincial piece from the 19th century. It opens with two molded doors featuring shaped panels, resting on cabriole legs. The front is adorned with an elegant design of moldings and fluted uprights, typical of regional Louis XV style. The long brass hinges and handles accentuate the elegance of the front and add a beautiful decorative touch.

Currently configured as a wardrobe with one shelf, it could be converted to a wardrobe with three shelves. The lock and key are functional, though not original. The wardrobe has a lovely, warm antique patina, with a particularly decorative wood grain. Its harmonious dimensions make it ideal for both classic and country chic interiors. Good overall condition, with consistent signs of wear. Delivery within
