Description

18th-Century Reproduction, English School -- Oval Giltwood Frame, William Smith, London
Oval moulded giltwood frame. The profile is decorated with a ribboned reed (torus) moulding. Original gilding with typical wear, revealing the red bole beneath. The reverse bears the period trade label of the London firm William Smith: "SMITH - Portrait-Painter in Oil, - Printseller & Picture Frame Maker, N. 40, Oxford Street". William Smith is listed as a printseller and frame maker active at this address in the last quarter of the 18th century (circa 1780-1800). His trade card is referenced on the British Museum website. Contains an early varnished reproduction (a print laid down/mounted on panel or card), using a technique imitating oil painting, with an overall age-related craquelure network. English
