Description

Set of six Piedmontese rocchetto chairs from the 18th century, crafted in solid walnut.
The chairs feature the typical structure with spool-turned legs connected by shaped stretchers, a distinctive element of 18th-century Piedmontese production.
The backrest, elegantly shaped in its line, is enhanced by decorative nailhead trim along the profile.
The seats and backrests are upholstered in cream-colored leather, adding brightness and refinement to the ensemble.
Structurally sound and entirely original in all their parts, they retain natural signs of age, visible in the photographs, which attest to their authenticity and history.
The chairs require restoration.
