PROANTIC
LE PLUS BEAU CATALOGUE D'ANTIQUITES

Bieidermeier Period Secretary/scriber In Flame Mahogany - 19th Century

1 000 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Mahogany

Width : 99

Height : 134

Depth : 46

Description

Bieidermeier period flame mahogany secretary desk - 19th century. Elegant antique flame mahogany desk with a curved front and a drop-front writing surface. A fine piece of work dating from the early 19th century. General Description: This piece combines a chest of drawers and a drop-front writing desk, offering both storage and writing space. It comprises: 1 upper drawer in the frieze; 1 drop-front revealing a compartmentalized interior; 3 large drawers in the lower section. The interior reveals: Several small side drawers; An open central compartment; A writing surface formed by the drop-front. The drawers are dovetailed, a testament to traditional craftsmanship. Aesthetics and Details: Superb flame grain on the front; Warm amber-brown hue; Molded top with a

Dealer

Tino antiquites

Mobilier

Mobile : 0763127955

11 rue de bel air à l'huis laurent

Dun les Places 58230

cyma molding; Carved scrolled front feet; Decorative brass keyhole escutcheons and handles. The grain pattern creates a highly decorative symmetrical effect on the drawers. Dimensions: Height: 134 cm Width: 99 cm Depth: 46 cm A beautiful piece, ideal for a living room, office, or bedroom. Condition: Good overall condition. Sound and stable structure. Drawers slide smoothly. Signs of use, minor marks, and normal wear. Some old marks on the top. Clean interior. Antique furniture preserved in its original patina. Style and Period: European work from the 19th century, inspired by the Empire style, recognizable by: Its clean and elegant lines. Its gently curved shape. Its richly grained wood. Ideal as: A small desk. A charming piece of furniture for a classic or country chic interior. A Haussmannian apartment. A piece for lovers of authentic antique furniture. A piece that is both functional and decorative, offering ample storage while maintaining timeless elegance.