Medieval Viking Sword From The 9th Century

14 000 EUR

Period : Before 16th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Metal

Length : 114 cm

Description

9th Century Medieval Viking Brazil Nut Sword A rarely seen Cruxifix form sword, from one of the most interesting period of medieval history.This high quality sword in intact condition is fitted with a brazil nut pommel and is a very interesting longer example. The sword made of high quality steel could point it it being a Frankish sword or made of Frankish steel which was known for its superior quality. These highly prized swords or steel would have been taken during their conquest of the FranksThe sword itself is in excellent condition and is sturdy and secure, the blade with its double fuller shows the age and trauma of multible battles, from the surface to the edges of the sword. The guard also displays many scars as you would expect. The handle is likley a later addtion but not modern.The blade also has the

Dealer

Antiques Armoury
Antiques and Collectables
Tel : 0035699849540

Triq Enrico Naudi
L'iklin IKL Malta 1641

remains of the cataloging number as this sword once sat in the archive of a musuem till. Sword is accompanied by a expertise document confirming the history and provenance.SpecificationsOverall Sword 114CM