

Antique Platinum Ring With A Cultured Pearl (approx. 10 Mm) And Baguette Diamonds - Early 20th C

1 200 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Platinum

Description

An elegant antique ring dating from the early 20th century, crafted in platinum, the precious metal emblematic of Belle Époque and early Art Deco jewelry. It features a cultured saltwater pearl at its center, flanked by two baguette-cut diamonds totaling approximately 0.30 carats, lending a graphic and refined touch typical of early 20th-century jewelry. The round pearl measures approximately 9.8 to 10.7 mm. The overall design displays a beautiful harmony, a delicate setting, and excellent craftsmanship. o Metal: Platinum o Main stone: Round cultured saltwater pearl, approx. 9.8-10.7 mm o Side stones: Two baguette-cut diamonds, approx. 0.30 ct total o Total ring weight: 3.27 g o Period: early 20th century o Condition: very good overall condition, with slight natural marks on the pearl

Dealer

Tripont

Design & excentricities - 19-20th Century

Toulouse 31500

consistent with its nature. The pearl has been the subject of a gemological report from the French Gemmological Laboratory (LFG Paris) confirming its identification. An elegant and timeless antique jewel, ideal for a collector or lover of antique jewelry.