Description

Large Moroccan Art Deco ceramic enameled dish with blue floral decor. Resulting from the ceramist craft of Morocco at the end of the Art Deco period (1910-1939), this large hollow dish or large bowl rimmed with brass is the worthy heir to a geometric & ethnic design with exceptional craftsmanship. The region surrounding the cities of Fez and Safi are known to be the true center of ceramic craftsmanship in Morocco. Ceramics of popular art & artistic are born there to be used or collected. This bowl was created with the aim of serving, today it will be more appreciated for its aesthetic side. We find in its enamel, traditional bright colors of Morocco, and patterns inspired by the geometry of Art Deco mixed with natural shapes (flowers). Perfect for decorating a table sensitive to the taste of the Maghreb, it can
