Description

A charming patinated bronze nightlight depicting an owl, a late 19th-century piece signed Frouin. The sculpture is finely crafted with beautifully rendered plumage and a very lifelike expression. The eyes are made of glass to allow light to pass through, creating a highly decorative lighting effect when the nightlight is on. This type of object was very popular in the late 19th century for providing ambient lighting in a bedroom or study. The bronze has a beautiful antique patina and meticulous chasing. The interior is equipped with an electrical system allowing it to be used as a nightlight. An original and decorative piece, ideal for a collector of animal bronzes and 19th-century decorative objects. Dimensions: Height: 14 cm Width: 9 cm Shipping: 30 euros.
