Description

A bronze okimono sculpture depicting a tiger and a bear. The large feline has climbed onto a rock beneath which the bear is hiding. It was crafted with great attention to detail, as evidenced by the animals' fur and their expressive muzzles, rendered with precision. The tiger is a symbol of strength and courage, and its confrontation with the bear is a classic motif in Asian animal art. Japan, Meiji era (1868-1912). Length 31 cm, height 22 cm, width 13.5 cm. Very good condition. Free shipping within the European Union! I ship via insured courier (DPD or DHL). All items are very carefully packaged. Payment by international bank transfer. I will provide a certificate of authenticity upon request.
