Description

Émile Brisset (1844-1904) was a French painter best known for his works depicting scenes of war, particularly those related to the Franco-Prussian War of 1870, which he exhibited at the Paris Salon from 1870 to 1900. This large-format canvas (canvas only: Height 122 cm, Width 96 cm) is presented in a gilt and stuccoed wooden frame. It depicts a cavalryman, soldiers, and their officer in a camp. The horses are finely rendered and proportioned. Information and additional photos are available upon request.
