Description

Small Dutch Frisian "Stoelklok Schippertje" Wall Clock Circa 1940-60

Still with the original polychrome paintwork on the dial and case.

The dial painted with a windmill and river view with ships.

Still with the original lead work brass hands and weighs.

The completely original hand made brass movement is executed with brass turned columns.

The polychrome case is executed on the backboard with mermaids.

This type of Schippertjes were made in the 18/19th century to use on the Dutch sailing ships and later they were also used in the homes.

All over in original beautiful condition with wonderful original old patination.
