Description

An elegant early 19th-century cheval mirror in finely chased and gilded bronze. This model features a circular mirror mounted on a pivoting axis, framed by a mount adorned with a palmette frieze typical of the Empire style. The mirror rests on a round bronze base decorated with chased motifs. The central stem is embellished with a cut crystal element, adding refinement and lightness to the whole. The pivoting mechanism allows the mirror to be angled as desired. A beautiful dressing table or boudoir piece, representative of the early 19th-century Neoclassical taste.
