Description

Deruta Pot Porcelaine, Italy. Ca.1800-1850. What makes the Deruta porcelain unique is the refined design, immediately recognizable by several elements: The Mythological figures and flower decoration, bright and vivid colors, golden-yellow, cobalt blue, green and red-orange, applied on a brilliant white background. Baroque and ornamental motifs. Dating and examine ceramics is often a very difficult thing to do, without museum-grade technology. Ceramic is one of the most difficult materials to date. A mark on the bottom could be a start to find grip on the history. In my opinion: this pot is certainly Italian and must be Deruta.
