Description

PropertiesView / Product LOIRE-INFÉRIEURE DEPARTMENT (44) - RARE Small departmental map - Late 18th century (1792)
Original print, engraved on steel. Antique engraving representing the Loire-Inférieure department, from the revolutionary period and probably one of the very first maps published in 1792 for this new administrative division.
Original 18th-century engraving from the National Atlas of the 83 departments, published in Paris in 1792 by Le Vachez, under the colonnades of the Palais-Royal. Map drawn by Captain Lejeune, geographer to the King. This exceptional print illustrates the new departmental territory as it emerged from the administrative reform of 1790, marking a fundamental step in French cartographic and political history.
