Description

French Inlaid Secretary - 19th Century An elegant French-made secretary with a drop-leaf, crafted in the 19th century and featuring extraordinary inlay workmanship in precious woods. The piece features a slender frame with flowing lines and contoured feet, embellished with rich, finely chiseled gilded bronze applications. The front flap, decorated with refined floral motifs and vegetal scrolls crafted using the marquetry technique, opens to reveal a leather-covered writing surface and an interior organized with three drawers and a central compartment, designed for correspondence and personal items. The lower front is punctuated by three drawers decorated with elegant floral inlays, while the sides feature additional ornamental motifs that highlight the quality of the craftsmanship. The
