Description

Cianciolo Noma (Italian ceramist, 20th century)
Large Tubular Vase in glazed ceramic. Decorated with figures with modernist faces, signed Cianciolo. Circa 1960s. Height 63cm x diameter 15cm. Two small chips in the glaze on the rim.
EUR480. Cianciolo Noma is a 20th-century Italian ceramic artist associated with the town of Santo Stefano di Camastra (known for its ceramic art between Palermo and Messina on the northern coast of Sicily). His creations, dating from the 1960s, exemplify the aesthetics of mid-20th-century Italian design and ceramics, often described as Mid-Century Modern or Space Age, characterized by expressive forms, abstract decorations, and a keen attention to the visual aspect of the material.
