Description

Pair of turned fruitwood candlesticks or torch holders, dating from the late 18th or very early 19th century, with elegantly turned shafts adorned with balusters and rings. Total height: 1 meter. The original honey patina and the remarkable stability of the bases (33 cm) make them exceptional supports for large candles, candelabras, or busts, with a diameter of 21 cm for the upper shelves. A fine and graphic piece of woodworking, ideal for adding authentic character to an interior. Rare pieces. Excellent condition. Carefully packaged. Tracked shipping within 24/48 hours. Payment accepted by credit card, bank transfer, or PayPal.
