Description

Crumb scoop and matching brush in earthenware with a Japanese-inspired decoration of plum blossoms, executed in a palette reminiscent of Imari porcelain. Two bronze nails, themselves crafted as stylized flower buds, secure the bristles to the earthenware mount. Made at the Saint-Clément pottery factory. Handwritten signature in brown enamel "St Clément" followed by "G" under the scoop. Circa 1880. Good condition - small chip around the rim on the underside of the scoop; small chips around the rim of the brush handle, see photos.
