Description

Solid pine storage modules originally designed as a modular wine cellar element in the 1970s. The structure is composed of square compartments assembled with characteristic circular connecting elements, allowing for repeatable and adaptable assembly. The compartments accommodate straight or angled shelves, initially intended for storing bottles. The entire unit rests on a self-supporting system, whose regular geometry evokes the modular design research of the 1970s.

Repurposed from its original function, this module can also serve as a bookcase or graphic storage unit, thanks to its striking architectural rhythm and the warmth of the solid pine. Large bookcase: H: 177 cm - W: 245 cm - D: 35 cm

Medium bookcase: H: 177 cm - W: 175 cm - D:
