Description

A TUDOR OYSTER watch from 1955, crafted in steel on a leather strap, equipped with a hand-wound mechanical movement. The model name, OYSTER, and its aesthetic both evoke another great name in watchmaking: ROLEX. Indeed, the two companies are linked: Tudor borrows its case components from Rolex, while equipping its watches with in-house manufactured movements. This allows the two brands, similar in their quality standards and innovation processes, to position themselves in two different markets with distinct pricing strategies. This is why the dial bears the Tudor logo, and the case crown features the famous Rolex signature crown. The Tudor logo lends its name to this model: Small Rose. This rose refers to the Tudor dynasty and was chosen to evoke the beauty of the lines of their models. The watch is therefore duly signed. In perfect condition and serviced, its proper functioning is guaranteed by us for one year (except in case of shock or immersion). Please note: designed, like Rolex watches, to be particularly robust and water-resistant, this watch, while retaining these characteristics, cannot be fully guaranteed for water resistance. Rolex itself does not guarantee the water resistance of its watches for more than 10 years. The size of this watch makes it perfectly unisex.
