Description

Raymond Renefer (1879-1957), painter, illustrator, and engraver, is classified among the Post-Impressionists, the Painters of Modern Reality, or the Intimists. Above all, Renefer was an eclectic painter who was often associated with Marquet and Signac. He actively participated in all the Parisian salons for over 40 years. He exhibited alongside Lebourg, Marquet, Signac, Bonnard, Cassatt, Lebasque, Vlaminck, Luce, and many others. Renefer was fond of the reflections of the changing sky, the swirling currents and the coming and going of boats, landscapes in the rain, floods, canals--in short, anything aquatic--to the point that he was awarded the title of "Painter of Air and Water." But he also painted city streets, the lights of Paris, dark suburbs, and rural landscapes. A discreet painter who scarcely
