Description

Elegant demi-lune console table of Italian manufacture from the late 18th century, executed in pure Neoclassical taste. The top is made of fine Giallo Siena marble, distinguished by its warm golden tones and natural veining. The frieze below is richly carved with phytomorphic motifs and classical masks, displaying refined decorative craftsmanship. The tapered, fluted truncated-pyramidal legs provide balance and visual lightness. A piece of great elegance and presence, ideal for an entryway, living room, or classical interior, capable of enhancing any space with its refined historical charm.
