Description

Miniature portrait of a man from the late 18th or very early 19th century. Painted in shades of blue-grey typical of the period. Dressed in a Directoire-era costume known as the "incroyable" (incredible). The figure poses bareheaded with a gold ring in his ear. Framed in a high-quality blackened wood frame with gilt brass rims, late 19th/early 20th century. Good overall condition. Miniature only, 5cm in diameter. All questions welcome.
