Description

Oil on canvas, signed lower right by Gaston Anglade, a painter of the renowned Crozant School. This beautiful composition depicts a landscape of flowering heather, enlivened by a path winding through the hills. The pink and mauve tones of the heather contrast harmoniously with the greens of the landscape, while the hazy horizon and diffused light convey all the poetry of the Creuse Valley landscapes. The artist's supple and luminous brushstrokes subtly capture the atmosphere and depth of the landscape, characteristic of the Crozant School painters. The work is presented in a beautiful antique carved frame, with a plaque bearing the artist's name. Dimensions: Canvas: 48 × 61 cm; Framed: 65 × 80 cm. A recognized painter of the Crozant School, Gaston Anglade exhibited at the Salon
