Description
Oil on canvas depicting the Tre Cime di Lavaredo as seen from Lake Antorno. In the foreground, the water surface stretches out, reflecting the woodland belt and the mountain silhouettes in the background, creating a balanced interplay of filled and empty spaces. The composition is built on overlapping planes, with an atmospheric effect obtained through a thick, textured brushstroke. This is particularly visible in the rocks and vegetation, where the painter alternates brushwork and palette-knife technique. The chromatic
