Description

Art Deco dining table, France, circa 1930.
High-gloss black lacquer. The tabletop rests on six tulip-shaped wooden legs that curve upwards. The sides are slightly curved forward and feature sliding extensions that allow for the addition of two shelves. It is precisely these extensions that make this Art Deco dining table particularly practical. The mustache-shaped base has curled sides and a slightly upward-sloping body. Even for an Art Deco dining table, the base design is an important detail. Height: 76 cm | Length: 180 cm | Depth: 100 cm | Extends 40 cm on each side.
Total length: 2.60 m.
