Description

Pair of cherubs, carved and gilded angels - 19th century An elegant pair of cherubs in finely carved and gilded wood, depicted in a dynamic pose with raised arms. The figures feature meticulously crafted anatomical volumes and facial details, typical of classical decorative sculpture. The original gilding, with a natural patina of age and slight signs of wear, lends the pieces great charm and authenticity. The cherubs were likely intended to decorate architectural furnishings, such as frames, console tables, mirrors, or altar pieces. The mirrored composition makes the pair particularly harmonious and ideal for placing on the sides of a mirror, above a door, on a wall above a bed holding draperies, or as a refined wall decoration.
