Description

This bronze sculpture with a brown patina, depicting the famous Discobolus attributed to the Greek sculptor Myron, captures with remarkable intensity the suspended moment before the throw. The athlete's body, taut in a spiraling motion, reveals a precise and harmonious anatomy, faithful to the classical canons of Antiquity. Resting on a black Portoro marble base with its characteristic veining, the piece exudes a strong and refined sculptural presence. The contrast between the warmth of the bronze and the mineral elegance of the marble lends the piece a decidedly timeless allure. This work, both decorative and emblematic, will naturally find its place in a contemporary or classic interior, adding a touch of history and sophistication. An ideal piece for lovers of antique art, collectors, or
