Description

Pair of Double Patina Wrought Iron Gates - Art Deco/Classical Decorative Style Period: 20th Century Condition: Very good condition Material: Wrought iron and gilt brass/bronze inserts Dimensions: [To be specified: total height and width of both leaves together] Description: Exceptional pair of wrought iron gates (or double-leaf gate), elegantly combining the rigor of the geometric structure with the fluidity of the floral ornamentation. Each leaf features a symmetrical design composed of wide "C"-shaped scrolls that curve harmoniously towards the center. The highlight of this composition lies in the central rosettes and raised flower buds, whose gilt finish provides a luminous and prestigious contrast against the black iron structure. The upper section is surmounted by stylized spearheads, adding a touch of verticality and nobility to the whole. The stiles are robust, ensuring perfect structural stability. This pair of doors can be used both indoors to separate two reception areas and outdoors for garden access or a loggia. A beautifully crafted piece, ideal for adding character to classic architecture. Key features:

- o High-quality, handcrafted forging.
- o Gilded floral decorations in excellent condition.
- o Exquisite symmetry of the two doors.
