In a Louis XV style with hints of Art Nouveau, this flatware is richly decorated with garlands of flowers, scrolls, acanthus leaves, and shells. The ends are engraved with large, naturalistic flowering branches. The handles and the faces of the spatulas are very lightly textured, which catches the light and contrasts with the polished parts of the flatware. This small detail testifies to the care and quality taken in the design of this flatware. Each piece is hallmarked: Minerva 1st standard pre-1973 for 950/°° silver
Maker's mark: ES with a lyre for Eugène Schifferlet, active from 1892 to 1902
Magnificent flatware with an elegant and delicate floral design typical of the late 19th century, before the explosion of Art Nouveau. 10.5 to 14 cm long
